

Business secrecy

The organization of an adversarial debate in the proceedings conducted before the Authority involves the parties communicating information which may be subject to business secrecy. A system for protecting business secrets has therefore been put in place, which must however be reconciled with the requirements of the rights of the defence.